PHILIPSTOWN CHORAL SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

The Philipstown Choral Society held its first spring meeting at the Haldane School on Wednesday, April 7.

Election of officers was held. Mr. John Marsh was elected president, Mr. Lawrence Reilley, vice-president, Miss Laurabel Brewer, secretary, Miss Angelina Constantino, treasurer.

Mr. Marsh, who has been director since the organization of the society, tendered his resignation. He explained that the press of business of his position as purchasing agent for the Ferguson Company necessitated his missing rehearsals and frequently made him late getting home. His resignation was accepted.

Mr. Roy Seeber has accepted the appointment of director. Mr. Seeber sang with Fred Waring before the war and was assistant to Robert Shaw who was Fred Waring's choral director. During the war he conducted a naval chorus.

USE A LITTLE JUDGMENT

On two previous occasions, this sheet has published an item regarding the unsightly condition and appearance of the village dump. These articles were published in the interest of the community and also because we hoped it would be of some benefit to the Village Board of Trustees in their efforts to keep this disposal spot in a tidy condition. Evidently the pleas made have been ignored, and instead of bettering the conditions the same have grown worse and the patience of the Village Board has reached the exhaustion point. This sort of what-do-we-care attitude displayed by local merchants and residents will be brought to an abrupt end by drastic measures. Signs will be placed in conspicuous places notifying people that the unloading of rubbish, garbage and papers any place, except over the edge of the dump, is strictly prohibited, and anyone violating this order will be summoned before the Police Justice. If disposals are placed over the edge of the proper dumping grounds the Board of Trustees will have men burn everything discarded and thereby save the village streets and all property in that section from being littered by papers and cardboard boxes. Those guilty of such an unfair practice should refrain and do their utmost in helping to keep one of the main entrances to the village in a more presentable condition.

THE COLD SPRING DRUM CORPS

In spite of many obstacles that confronted the Cold Spring Drum Corps, the members of this organization, many of whom are World War II veterans, forged ahead and brought the corps up to a point which has attracted considerable attention. They have received a limited amount of financial aid but apparently that was "only a drop in the bucket." It was not ample to purchase all the equipment needed, so with a grim determination to carry on, each member purchased his own uniform and the selection of such attire gives evidence of excellent taste. Let us just say they are very "smart." If anyone cares to give the boys a little financial aid, they won't feel offended. At any rate, give them plenty of moral support. We understand they are signing up for several parades for the coming season and here's hoping they have many offers. Good luck, boys!

ST. MARY'S CHURCH

The Laymen's League, an organization of and for men, was organized at St. Mary's Episcopal Church at a meeting recently held in the rectory. At this meeting, held April 8, Raymond Christian, James D. Coleman, Newell S. Covert, Francis G. Dale, Clarence Glass, John Marsh, Robert Nairn and P. Conger Pinkel met with the rector, the Rev. H. A. Griswold, and decided to organize a club for men within the Church. After some discussion the name Laymen's League was adopted. The purpose of organizing the club is to provide a nucleus of cheerful and efficient workers which can be relied upon to contribute its services when needed to promote the physical and spiritual welfare of the church.

Temporary officers, pending an organizational meeting of the league, will serve the organization. These are Newell Covert, president; L. M. Gent, vice-president; John Marsh, secretary and Vernon Abrams, treasurer.

The group voted to hold an organizational smoker in the Parish House on Saturday evening, May 1. John Marsh, Clarence Glass and Conger Pinkel were chosen as a committee to prepare and make plans for this smoker.

On Tuesday, April 13, Mr. Joseph Sullivan of Garrison, N. Y. attended the funeral of his aunt, Mrs. Warren Lewis, aged 86 years, at Barrytown, N. Y.

A County Meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary was held at Brewster, Tuesday evening. Those attending from George A. Casey Unit, No. 275, were Mrs. Robert McNeill, Mrs. Matea Hopkins, Mrs. Edith Bronk and Mrs. Joseph Jones. Following the meeting a social hour was held.

A HISTORY OF COLD SPRING

Two hotels were established — one was kept by George W. Travis, the Cold Spring House; the other by Walter Simonson, the Pacific Hotel, and were located on or near the new dock. A new hotel was opened in Nelsonville, called the Alhambra house. Dr. Burke had before started a saloon in what was called the barracks. He died before or about 1835. Davy Calahan, a house waiter to Mr. Kemble, took the Burke house, saloon and stock in trade. He soon became intemperate and in a few years died. His brother Tommy, who took his place at Mr. Kemble's took Davy's place in the Burke saloon, with his stock in trade. He as was said, became intemperate and also died. Thus in the space of about twelve years three persons occupying the same place went to their long home. Mr. Samuel Bryant took the saloon which Burke and the Callahans had occupied. He manufactured and sold malt or spruce beer and cider for a few years. For several years those four places were nearly the only ones where drink was sold.

The population at this time was about as large as at the present day. The New York shops had all been removed to Cold Spring. A better set of mechanics could not be found — they were the pick from all the shops in New York. If I should attempt to mention their names I would fail to think of all, so I forbear to mention any. They were as a general rule of the best character and were an honor to the community. Twenty-four houses built by Mr. Gouveneur were soon occupied, and others came and built houses for themselves. The price of building lots at this time was as low as $4 per foot. In a few years the price went up from $12 to $15 per foot.

The brook that was so beneficial in filling in the basin before mentioned by Davenport and Williams, became an occasional damage to the inhabitants and still continues so. It has baffled the ingenuity of all wise heads to devise a plan to remedy it, and hence the remedy has never been found.

I pause to notice some strange incidents that took place in Cold Spring and vicinity along up to 1845-50.

Robert Williams, as I have before mentioned being in the employ of Mr. Gouveneur, asked the hand in marriage of Caroline Warren, a graceful and beautiful woman, a sister of the wife of Elisha C. Baxter, of Nelsonville, and they having a married sister as I believe in the State of New Hampshire. Caroline went there and Robert Williams followed after her, his intended bride. He left the City of New York in the dead season of winter, leaving his house he had provided in Cold Spring for the return of his supposed bride, proceeded on his journey on the Steamer Lexington, which was burned in the middle of Long Island Sound, leaving none to tell the fate of the passengers and crew. I will remember the consternation that prevailed in Cold Spring on receiving this shocking news. The journals of the day commented on it, and all that could be gathered of the fate of the steamer was that a vessel was seen burning on the Sound that night. It was the coldest weather of that year. Thus perished Robert Williams.

IN A DARK CHURCH

I stood at the hour of midnight alone

In the dark in a church on a hill,
The silence awakened by soft whisp'ring moan

Of a zephyr that spoke in the still;

The creak of a timber how loud
seemed to me,

And I seemed my own heartbeat
to hear;

Alone, yet there seemed unseen
something to be

And a Something unseen seemed so near.

I stood all alone, yet I sensed I was not—

There was something, a Something
there too;

I stood not alone in that dark silent spot

And a heart beat with mine
there I knew.

I stepped to the door and looked up to the sky.

Saw The Builder's cathedral so fair,

Read notes of His anthem in stars passing by

As the hand of The Player played there.

GENERAL NEWS

Plans are being made for another 'teen-agers dance to be held in Haldane Central School auditorium.

The Senior Class of Haldane Central School is planning on a trip to New York City to witness "Macbeth."

The Annual Communion Breakfast, sponsored by the Holy Name Society of Our Lady of Loretto Church, will be held in Loretto Hall, Sunday, May 9th.

A food sale, under the auspices of the Senior Class of Haldane High School, will be held in the Italian-American Club rooms on Saturday, April 17 from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Many residents of this community plan to attend the minstrel show to be given this Thursday evening at the Roosevelt Theatre in Beacon. The show is being given by the Men's Club of the Presbyterian Church of Beacon and is sponsored by the Masonic Lodge of that place.

Rehearsals are being held for a play to be given by the Playmakers of Haldane School in the near future. Former plays have been given by this dramatic circle and judging from reports, this affair will be presented in the usual high standard that has always been displayed in this line.

20th CENTURY FOX FILM PRODUCTION IN METHODIST CHURCH

The modern full time Fox Film Production "The Great Commandment" will be presented in the auditorium of the Methodist Church, Sunday evening at 7:30. This picture starts historically in the midst of a revolt of the Jews and the Romans. As a result of the tumult and the rioting a new tax was imposed upon the Jews. Those Jews unable to pay the tax were imprisoned, and much cruelty pursued their uprising to fight the Romans to gain their freedom. A very beautiful love story runs through the entire picture. The Christ appears in His ministry performing miracles and thus substantiating His Messiahship among the Jews. The parable of the Good Samaritan is offered in answer to the Lawyer's question: "Who is my neighbor?" Which is very definitely answered in the story. The conflict between the power of force and the power of love is constantly in evidence until the power of love is most convincingly proved in one of the outstanding features of the story of "The Great Commandment" to which you are heartily invited to see this Sunday at 7:30 p.m.
